Planner's comments - Rob McKenna

Hamsterley was not our first choice for the October Odyssey, but following access problems with a few other areas and quickly running out of time it seemed to be the only option left to us. So this was my fourth attempt at planning for this event, which was done in quite a short space of time.

Low Redford & Windy Bank has been used quite a few times over the years and the map is now getting a bit out of date, but I tried to modify it where possible when checking control sites - the next event here should have a new map drawn from scratch. Mountain bike tracks are always a problem and probably some of the smaller ones should be removed to improve clarity.

Having planned at Hamsterley many times in the past it is always difficult to come up with something different and challenging courses.

The main aim of the planning was to keep you in what I thought was the 'better' parts of the forest, but unfortunately this meant a lot of tedious up and down for most courses. With the area being long and thin this is almost unavoidable if you want to maintain the technical level and keep competitors off the main tracks.

The start was positioned basically to give a different route for the junior courses and although some distance from registration the fine weather on the day may have made this a pleasant warm-up walk for all. Starting at the bridge also allowed other courses to get into the more technical areas early on, once they got up the slope but unfortunately this also meant a bit of a dreary finish for most courses.

Looking at the times it appears that some of the older competitors appeared to have struggled with the climb and possibly the denser undergrowth on the upper slopes - the distance of the courses had been planned to the lower end of the guidelines for this reason.

My thanks to Duncan Archer who agreed to act as controller early on till a controller could be found - his advice on control sites, courses and the state of the map were very useful. Julian also came to my rescue picking me up on silly mistakes I had made.

My apologies to any competitor who did not get the run they may have wanted because of map numbers and my thanks to those competitors that allowed us to re-cycle their map. Map numbers were based on the previous OO at Hamsterley and also on other recent OO's. It is always difficult to estimate entry numbers and what courses competitors may want to run - I suppose a pre-entry system may have eased the situation.
