Organisers / planner comments – Rob McKenna

Many thanks for all turning up and supporting this event – I hope that you got something rewarding from it. The earlier poor weather which may have threatened the competition turned milder on the day, which did create other problems with slippery going surfaces in places. Winning times look about right on most of the courses but there are some longer times below them. Even though I kept the courses on the lower end of the recommended range and tried to avoid direct climb, it seems that some competitors still found the area quite a bit of a challenge. The use of punches and controls cards also added to the range of things that you had to concentrate on but this could have been offset by the visibility or non-visibility of some of the controls. Parking is a bit of a problem that we need to sort out for next time – there is adequate space but the ranger seems reluctant to open the gates – sorry for the squeeze.
