Organisers comments – Grahame Rose

Thank you Michael Fish, 'nough said!
You know the one about the organiser who arrives at the venue and realises that the event control cards are lying on the table at home? Well, with only 15 minutes until registration opening time, I realised, with a sinking feeling in my stomach, that I had eventually joined the ranks of 'experienced organiser'. Thanks go to my wife Ruth, for doing her near perfect Stirling Moss impression and setting a new lap record to save the day!
I also managed to miss off the information sheet that fields were 'out of bounds', this omission changed the route choice considerably, and negated planning concepts in some parts of the course. My apologies go out to the planner and land owners.
This was always going to be a hard event to stage successfully given the difficulty of a necessary complicated start and finish procedure. However, the level of detailed discussion between controller, planner and organiser well before the event ensured a smooth operation, didn't it? Well, on the day it would appear not. Lessons were learnt for another day, the golden one being to over plan for 'people problems'. Never mind, the only runners comments I overheard, or listened to, were good ones.
Thanks go to Maurice Swales for excellent planning, to Don Smith for his expert controlling and last but not most important of all, those who shared the task of marshalling the event. They all used their considerable experience in smoothing out any short fall by myself. Finally, to all those competing in orienteering for the first time, I look forward to seeing you at future events. Should you have already become addicted to the sport, and wish to take the bold step of joining Northern Navigators, then please give Noel and Elizabeth Arrowsmith a call on 0191 3780479.

Planners comments – Maurice Swales

I hope you enjoyed the courses. My main aim was to try and persuade you to navigate through the most interesting areas, i.e. those where there was little bramble cover. In addition I tried to incorporate as much route choice as possible given the shape of the area. Both of these aims were thwarted by those who chose to climb over fences and run across fields which were as usual 'out of bounds'.

I didn't hear any comments regarding pre-marked maps. The type of event and nature of the area led to more controls than usual so we decided to pre-mark courses. This meant that the map corrections had to be copied down after issuing the maps. The number of corrections was kept to a minimum – just those which I thought would affect route choice. My congratulations to those who coped well with the path and vegetation changes, especially in the northern part. Had we known in advance the number of competitors for each course we could have avoided black and white maps for course 'B' leg 2.

Kite no.63 was too visible from further down the hill – I should have used the re-entrant. Three controls were 'visited' by non-orientees. No.51 was moved 60m north; no.58 was moved 10m north east and no.61 had the punch removed. I hope the people responsible did not spoil your runs.

Finally, my thanks to Don for his guidance and help; to the Brook and Lord families for helping collect in the controls and lastly, but by no means least to Grahame for organising the event at short notice.

Controllers comments – Don Smith

Congratulations to those competitors on course 'A' who managed to pick up all controls. We considered it to be a realistic possibility should the more experienced runners opt for the shorter course time. A second part on this course would have created the possibility of running out of maps. In a small area requiring many controls we decided to make life easier for you by over-printing course 'A' and leg 1 of course 'B'. On the other hand to over-print course 'B' leg 2 would have left us short of maps for the event. We hope the compromise of a photo-copy for leg 2 was a satisfactory solution. Unfamiliarity with score events led to a few minor organisational problems early in the day, but the spring like weather informality of the event, and obvious enjoyment of the participants made it all worthwhile.

My thanks to Maurice for his courses, Grahame and family for undertaking the organisation at short notice and the club members who assisted on the day.
