Organisers comments

We were fortunate yet again with the weather except for quite a strong wind. Everyone appeared to enjoy the light-hearted event, as it was intended to be. A number of people were kind enough to thank us for our efforts. No problems preparing the event or from the competitors. My thanks to whoever rescued the kite event direction marker at the road junction in Rowlands Gill, which had been blown down by the strong wind.

Hope to see you all again next Christmas (bring your friends) to run on the new map.

Happy New Year and good orienteering in 1987 from Pat, Ken and Peter Redhead.

Planners comments

I was glad to see another good turn-out this year at the now customary Chopwell Christmas flab remover. The controls were spread differently this year with the idea of three main clumps of sites in the north, SE and SW sectors of the wood, separated by quite long runs. I planned for a winners time of 50 minutes and I was pleased to see Steve Murdoch leaping the road barrier from his last control (no.4) after 51 minutes.

Penalties were deliberately low seeing as this was Christmas but looking at the good results of some people who were over 10 minutes late I think I may have been over generous.

With a colour map next year we'll hope to try some fun variations (prizes?...never!), so see you then if not at others events in '87.
